Message from ICNY Executive Director

Dear Friends,

Last Friday's Executive Order introducing a temporary travel ban on people from 7 Muslim countries made an exception for an individual belonging to “a religious minority in [the] country of nationality facing religious persecution.” Christians fleeing persecution from Iraq and other conflict-ridden majority Muslim countries would receive entry. Muslims escaping those same places would not. The list of evangelical leaders who have spoken out against this is here. The former Acting Attorney General's Letter refusing to enforce this order is here; and National Security expert Juliette Kayyem puts it succinctly in an interview with Slate “if we want to convince someone that there is a holy war, this is the way to do it. This idea, that Christians are more worthy than the vast majority of other victims who are Muslims, just deepens the problem.”

At JFK this weekend, our partner the New York Immigration Coalition described some 52 people (as of Sunday night at 7pm) who suffered under this order:

- A 60-year-old father and 30-year-old brother of a United States Citizen cancer researcher (30 hours)
- A 65-year-old Sudanese woman with diabetes and a Green Card holder
- A father and son from Iran (33 hours)
- A group of six Iraqis, three men and three women were handcuffed and brought from room to room throughout their detention, including through public areas of the airport.

On the home front, we welcome Vijay Wijesundera as the new Operations Manager in January.

*Vijay Wijesundera
ICNY's new Operations Manager*

Born in Sri Lanka, Vijay fled political persecution, and sought asylum in the US. He has been helping at many faith-based homeless shelters and charities in NYC, and is also an avid blood donor. He still is a refugee, but is planning to become a naturalized citizen this year, and we are proud to celebrate his many contributions to American civic life.

In celebration of the Black History Month, we as New Yorkers are blessed to have a packed schedule of events including lectures, readings, exhibitions, and dance and music performances across all 5 boroughs of the New York City. Celebrate Black History Month at these 12 NYC Events.

And, several city neighborhoods – including Manhattan's Chinatown, Flushing, Queens and Sunset Park, Brooklyn – offer authentic Lunar New Year celebrations; here's a guide to parades and celebrations in New York City.

Many thanks go to Dr. Henry Goldschmidt who has been Interim Director at the Interfaith Center since December as I have enjoyed a two-month sabbatical writing about Christian Peacemaking, Interfaith Activism, and Islamophobia.

Best Wishes,

Rev. Chloe Breyer

Religious Worlds of New York
K-12 Teachers Welcome to Apply for ICNY's next Summer Institute

K-12 teachers are invited to apply for the Religious Worlds of New York summer institute - a three-week program, with a generous stipend, that will help them teach about religious diversity. Applications are due by March 1st.

In today's climate of religious bigotry and extremism, public, private, and faith-based schools can help to promote interfaith understanding. The July 2017 Religious Worlds institute will give teachers the tools they need to help build a more inclusive society. Past participants have described the institute as "my best professional development experience ever" and "one of the best learning experiences of my life" (click here for many more evaluations). Don't miss this extraordinary opportunity to explore the religious worlds of New York.

The institute is sponsored by ICNY and Union Theological Seminary, with support from the National Endowment for the Humanities. It will meet from July 10th to 28th on the UTS campus, in the Manhattan neighborhood of Morningside Heights. All NEH summer scholars will receive a $2,700 stipend to help pay travel, housing, and living expenses for the duration of the institute. Applications from teachers are due by March 1st. For detailed information and application instructions, please visit www.religiousworldsnyc.org.

SAVE THE DATE: APRIL 5, 2017

The 33rd Marshall Meyer Retreat for Social Justice

Hospitality in a Time of Hate:
Religious Leadership for an Inclusive City under the Trump Administration

Religious and civic leaders in partnership at a past Marshall Meyer Retreat

On April 5th, ICNY will hold a full-day conference for the city's religious and civic leaders, exploring the emerging challenges for religious leadership under the presidency of Donald Trump. How, we will ask, can diverse New Yorkers best respond to the Trump administration's xenophobic rhetoric and policy agenda? What new opportunities for dialogue, collaboration, and community organizing might emerge, as faith leaders mobilize around the rising tides of racism, Islamophobia, and anti-Semitism? How can we advance an inclusive vision for the future of the city and country we love, in what may be a period of sustained attacks on our core values and communities?

As in our past Marshall Meyer Retreats, the Hospitality in a Time of Hate conference will include a keynote presentation, panel discussions, small group dialogues, interfaith prayer, and networking opportunities. Through these conversations, ICNY will help New York's religious and civic leaders respond to the rapidly changing, and increasingly troubling, landscape of American political life. Participation will be free for religious and civic leaders, thanks in part to a generous grant from the Fellowship in Prayer. We hope you can join us and your diverse colleagues on April 5th. Detailed program and registration info coming soon.

Social Work and Religious Diversity: Religion, Spirituality, and Family Life

Faith leaders and service providers in conversation at the 2016 Social Work and Religious Diversity conference

The Interfaith Center of New York and our partners are delighted to announce our next full-day continuing education conference for social service and mental health care providers. Please save the date for Wednesday, May 10th, when we will explore the intimate ties between religion, spirituality, and family life in diverse local faith communities. Detailed program and registration info coming soon.

The conference will be co-sponsored by ICNY, the Jewish Board of Family and Children's Services, and the Psychotherapy and Spirituality Institute. It will help service providers in a range of fields build their multifaith cultural competence, while offering seven continuing education credit hours for New York State LMSWs and LCSWs.
