Resistance Sing-In: Lift Your Voice for Justice

Thursday, March 19, 6:30 - 8:00 pm

The Riverside Church, 490 Riverside Drive

Individual or Group Registration

The poet Khalil Gibran once wrote, “Music is the language of the spirit.” In times of uncertainty, many communities are rediscovering the power of song.

Across the country, people are gathering to sing in the streets for justice, resilience, and community care. Groups like Resistance Revival Chorus and Singing Resistance have helped spark this growing movement in cities like Minneapolis and here in New York City.

This tradition draws from the songs of enslaved people and the music of the Civil Rights Movement, reminding us that singing together can sustain courage when the road ahead feels heavy.

Join us for a Resistance Sing-In on Thursday, March 19, at 6:30pm. Leaders from Resistance Revival Chorus and Singing Resistance will guide us in learning songs that will be carried into upcoming actions like the No Kings March and Hands Off NYC mobilizations.

When voices rise together, courage has a way of returning.

Legal Ethics and Moral Values: Bringing Personal Authenticity to Professional Practice

Tuesday, March 24, 1:00 - 5:00 pm

New York Law School, 185 West Broadway

Free and Open to All

Please join ICNY and New York Law School (NYLS) on Tuesday, March 24, to explore the intersection of personal, professional, and religious ethics in legal practice. How, we will ask, should an attorney's personal sense of morality — including their religious or secular values — influence their decision-making in the practice of law?

This half-day continuing legal education conference will feature a keynote dialogue between Hon. Asim Rehman (former OATH Commissioner and Chief Administrative Law Judge, Adjunct Professor at NYLS, and cofounder of the Muslim Bar Association of New York), Prof. Russell Pearce (Professor Emeritus at the Fordham University School of Law), and Yazmine Nichols (Associate Director of NYLS's Wilf Impact Center for Public Interest). Their dialogue will explore the role of an attorney's personal or religious values in their legal work and professional identity formation. Following the keynote, a panel of attorneys in a range of practice areas will discuss the relationship between professional ethics, personal values, and the fundamental principle of the rule of law. Finally, an interactive workshop co-facilitated by Dr. Henry Goldschmidt (ICNY Director of Programs) will help participants explore best practices for lawyering for a religiously diverse society.

The conference will be held at New York Law School's Abbey Hall, 185 West Broadway, in Tribeca, New York. All are welcome – not just lawyers! New York State attorneys will receive Four Continuing Legal Education Credits. Click the button or scan the code above for free registration.

In a time when the moral fabric of our world feels increasingly strained, this gathering invites us to pause, reflect, and imagine what liberation asks of us now.

Co-imagined by Rabbi Mike Moskowitz and Union Theological Seminary's Office of Alumni Engagement, the Interreligious Seder for Liberation welcomes both Jewish and non-Jewish participants into the spiritual depth, ethical imagination, and liberatory power of the Seder tradition. Rooted in the ancient movement from bondage to freedom, this public ritual creates space for revelation — of truth, of responsibility, and of our shared capacity to help build a more just and courageous world.

The evening will be guided by Rabbi Mike Moskowitz, with reflections woven throughout the Seder from Dr. Cornel West, Rev. Dr. Serene Jones, Rabbi Sharon Kleinbaum, and religious leaders from across traditions.

Together, we will gather at a communal table to reflect on liberation, belonging, exile, moral courage, and the work of justice in our time. A kosher vegetarian meal will be served.

Congregations and faith communities are warmly invited to attend as communities. Group registration is available, and we would be honored to welcome your congregation to the table. Click the button above to register now — space will be limited.
